Description

A visual field acuity test is a painless test that determines a patient's visible field of view. The test maps central and peripheral vision. This policy describes the medical necessity requirements for visual field testing.

Policy/Criteria

- I. It is the policy of WellCare of North Carolina® that visual field testing is medically necessary for the following indications:
 - A. Malpositioning of the upper eyelid, including dermatochalasis, blepharochalasis, blepharoptosis, brow ptosis or injury;
 - B. Glaucoma or glaucoma suspect;
 - C. Diabetic and/or hypertensive retinopathy;
 - D. Macular pathology, including degeneration;
 - E. Functional assessment of the optic nerve in any of the following conditions: papilledema, coloboma, drusen, pallor, pseudopapilledema, Foster-Kennedy syndrome, optic nerve sheath hemorrhage, or hypoplasia;
 - F. Intracranial hemorrhage, mass or increased intracranial pressure;
 - G. Occlusion and/or stenosis of cerebral/precerebral arteries, transient cerebral ischemia or giant cell arteritis;
 - H. Retinal vascular occlusion (central retinal artery, partial retinal artery, retinal artery branch, central retinal vein, tributary retinal vein), changes in vascular appearance, exudative retinopathy, retinal micro-aneurysms, retinal neovascularization, vasculitis, or telangiectasias;
 - I. Retinal dystrophies, tears, thinning, schisis edema, ischemia, hemorrhage or detachment;
 - J. Symptoms or diagnosis of neoplasm of brain including the optic chiasm, cranial nerves, pituitary and pineal glands, or craniopharyngeal duct;
 - K. Visual field defects identified on gross visual field screening;
 - L. Use of high risk medication (e.g. Plaquenil);
 - M. Focal chorioretinal inflammation;
 - N. Choroidal rupture or detachment;
 - O. Degenerative myopia;
 - P. Retinal pigment epithelium detachment;
 - Q. Retinal or choroidal neovascularization;
 - R. Buphthalmos;

- S. Ocular injury.
- II. It is the policy of WellCare of North Carolina® that visual field testing is not medically necessary for the following indications:
 - A. Repeated testing for a stable, diagnosed condition (above);
 - B. Repeated testing exceeding twice per year for controlled glaucoma;
 - C. Pretreatment for retinal detachment;
 - D. Diagnosis and/or management of cataracts.

Background

The visual field test produces a computer printout of the light thresholds that the patient's eyes were able to perceive and process. The darkest areas of the test indicate a complete loss of vision in that area. The lighter the area, the more vision the patient has in that part of the eye. The area of vision loss gives clues as to where in the visual pathway a problem has occurred. Vision begins with special receptors at the back of the eye in the retina. The image captured by each eye is sent to the brain by the optic nerves. When the nerves reach the optic chiasm, they cross over each other. The nerve fibers from the inside half of each retina cross to the other side of the brain, while the nerve fibers from the outside half of the retina stay on the same side of the brain.

At the end of the optic nerve, the optic radiations send the images to the occipital lobe at the back of the brain. The area where vision is interpreted is called the primary visual cortex.

Standard white-on-white automated perimetry remains the most commonly performed test for assessing the visual field, with the Swedish interactive threshold algorithm (SITA) largely replacing full-threshold testing strategies. Frequency-doubling technology (FDT) and its refinement into Matrix perimetry, as well as short-wavelength automated perimetry, now available with SITA, have been evaluated extensively. Short wavelength automated perimetry detected visual field loss earlier than standard threshold automated perimetry, with a sensitivity and specificity of about 88% and 92% respectively. However, it is a lengthy, demanding test, is sensitive to media opacities, and has a greater magnitude of long-term fluctuation compared with standard threshold automated perimetry, which make it difficult to assess disease progression accurately. When compared to standard threshold automated perimetry, FDT perimetry showed sensitivity and specificity greater than 97% for detecting moderate and advanced glaucoma, and sensitivity of 85% and specificity of 90% for early glaucoma. As FDT perimetry has a short testing time and is resistant to blur and pupil size, it may be a useful screening tool. Gross visual field testing (e.g., confrontation testing) and computerized screening field assessments are part of general ophthalmological services and should not be reported separately.

North Carolina Guidance

Eligibility Requirements

- a. An eligible beneficiary shall be enrolled in the NC Medicaid Program (Medicaid is NC Medicaid program, unless context clearly indicates otherwise);
- b. Provider(s) shall verify each Medicaid beneficiary's eligibility each time a service is rendered.
- c. The Medicaid beneficiary may have service restrictions due to their eligibility category that would make them ineligible for this service.

EPSDT Special Provision: Exception to Policy Limitations for a Medicaid Beneficiary under 21 Years of Age

a. 42 U.S.C. § 1396d(r) [1905(r) of the Social Security Act] Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic, and Treatment (EPSDT) is a federal Medicaid requirement that requires the state Medicaid agency to cover services, products, or procedures for Medicaid beneficiary under 21 years of age if the service is medically necessary health care to correct or ameliorate a defect, physical or mental illness, or a condition [health problem] identified through a screening examination (includes any evaluation by a physician or other licensed practitioner).

CLINICAL POLICY WNC.CP.185 VISUAL FIELD TESTING

This means EPSDT covers most of the medical or remedial care a child needs to improve or maintain his or her health in the best condition possible, compensate for a health problem, prevent it from worsening, or prevent the development of additional health problems.

Medically necessary services will be provided in the most economic mode, as long as the treatment made available is similarly efficacious to the service requested by the beneficiary's physician, therapist, or other licensed practitioner; the determination process does not delay the delivery of the needed service; and the determination does not limit the beneficiary's right to a free choice of providers.

EPSDT does not require the state Medicaid agency to provide any service, product or procedure:

- 1. that is unsafe, ineffective, or experimental or investigational.
- 2. that is not medical in nature or not generally recognized as an accepted method of medical practice or treatment.

Service limitations on scope, amount, duration, frequency, location of service, and other specific criteria described in clinical coverage policies may be exceeded or may not apply as long as the provider's documentation shows that the requested service is medically necessary "to correct or ameliorate a defect, physical or mental illness, or a condition" [health problem]; that is, provider documentation shows how the service, product, or procedure meets all EPSDT criteria, including to correct or improve or maintain the beneficiary's health in the best condition possible, compensate for a health problem, prevent it from worsening, or prevent the development of additional health problems.

EPSDT and Prior Approval Requirements

- 1. If the service, product, or procedure requires prior approval, the fact that the beneficiary is under 21 years of age does NOT eliminate the requirement for prior approval.
- 2. IMPORTANT ADDITIONAL INFORMATION about EPSDT and prior approval is found in the NCTracks Provider Claims and Billing Assistance Guide, and on the EPSDT provider page. The Web addresses are specified below: NCTracks Provider Claims and Billing Assistance Guide:
